JEPPE GJERVIG GRAM

BAFTA-winning Writer, Creator, Showrunner

While working with acquisition of US series at Danish broadcaster TV 2 from 2000-2005, Jeppe Gjervig Gram fell in love with the series format, and since graduating in screenwriting from film school in 2007, he has devoted his career to TV series.

He wrote episodes on the popular medical drama SOMMER, before developing the first Danish political series BORGEN in 2008 together with headwriter Adam Price and Gram's film school writing partner Tobias Lindholm. Gram went on to write 14 out of the 30 episodes of the original 3 seasons. BORGEN was an international hit, and Gram was awarded both a Bafta and a Peabody Award for his work.

In 2016 Gram launched his own show as a headwriter, FOLLOW THE MONEY, which ran three seasons on DR in the same coveted Sunday night timeslot as BORGEN and was sold to numerous countries around the world. It too garnered a string of Danish and foreign prizes. New series are on their way.

Parallel to his writing, for the past 12 years Gram has taught the Danish "One Vision Model" in masterclasses all over the world - from London and Berlin to Auckland and Beijing. In 2022, he helped found the European Showrunner Programme, the first course in tv series leadership outside of the US. He currently serves as Head of Program.
